

Amendments to the Abstract

Please replace the Abstract with the following substitute Abstract.

ABSTRACT

A process for evaluating the quality of coded images (e.g., two video sequences) uses a homogeneous motion vector field and psychovisual filtering to take into account Human Visual System (HVS) characteristics to calculate the error between the two video sequences.